TAX BATTLE OPENED IN HOUSE

LEVY ON FEDERAL SALARIES IS URGED

FUTURE GOVERNMENT SECURITIES INCOME WOULD BE TAXABLE

FEDERAL REVENUES WOULD BE INCREASED BY $300,000,000 IS ESTIMATE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—(P)—President Roosevelt urged congress today to make all private income from all government salaries and all future government securities subject to the general income tax laws of the federal and state governments.

Federal tax officials have estimated that federal revenue would increase, as a result, as much as $300,000,000 annually. State governments also would benefit by large revenue increases from reciprocal authority given them to tax federal salaries and bonds.

The federal government now collects taxes graduated upward from 4 per cent on income derived from interest on federal bonds and on salaries of federal employees. States which have income tax laws have refrained from taxing income from these sources. The President recommended subjecting this income to state as well as federal taxation.

(States having income tax laws now levy on income from state and local bonds and salaries of state and local employes, but the federal collector refrains from taxing these forms of income. The President's proposal would subject state salaries and bond interest to federal taxes, too.)

In a special message Mr. Roosevelt also advised congress that recent supreme court decisions had made some state salaries and some state securities subject to taxes. He asked legislation to prevent the persons whose income would thus be taxes retroactively from suffering inequalities.

"Unless the congress passes some

AIR CORPS CHIEF ESTIMATES AIRCRAFT INDUSTRY CAN TRIPLE OUTPUT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—(P)—The first official outline of President Roosevelt's $552,000,000 national defense program gave congress a broad new intimation to day that 10,000 army planes remain a long range administration objective.

Detailing Mr. Roosevelt's recommendations, Maj. Gen. Henry H. Arnold proposed to the house military committee a new 6,000-plane line-up for army air corps, but made it clear this referred only to fighting planes.

Rep. May (D-Ky.) the committee chairman, introduced such a bill yesterday.

On the basis Arnold outlined, almost as many training and other semi-military aircraft would be required in carrying forward into the second and third years the initial increase of "minimum" of 3,000 planes which Mr. Roosevelt recommended.

Adams' subcommittee continued its work on the bill after hearing Senator Bone (D-Wash.) urge yesterday that the appropriation be raised. Bone's testimony fol

HERR HITLER ALLEGEDLY HAS BEEN DIPPING HIS SPOON INTO UNCLE SAM'S TRADE PORRIDGE

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—(P)—

Hitler Adolf Hitler would seem to have been dipping his quick spoon into Uncle Sam's fortification porridge again.

Two of the great countries of the western hemisphere are involved—Mexico and Brazil. And there is something for America to ponder, since the ever hungry nazi Oliver Twist has been getting a lot of his economic vitamins lately from good neighbors in the Monroe doctrine area.

Specifically, as usually well-informed German news service says that an improved and extended system of bartering merchandise between Germany and Brazil is planned.

Also, the sudden return of General Juan Azcarate to his post as Mexican minister to Berlin, after an absence of more than a year, is believed by many ob servers to be linked with an ob jective to expand trade relations between the two countries.

Mexico recently made a sensational barter transaction for dipping oil, taken mainly from export-petroleum wells of American and British companies. Most of it went to grease the wheels of Germany, and a lot of folk think this has encouraged Mexico to expand such oil sales to the Reich.

The nazi barter system is one of the wonders of our time. The fatherland swaps its products for the products of other countries without any cash changing hands. In simplicity it's on a par with the trade it's on a par with a boy who exchanges a jack-knife for a broken blade for a live snake in a bottle.

I was chatting the other day in Paris with French Finance Minister Paul Renaud and he

HOUSE COMMITTEE ON APPROPRIATIONS CUT DEFICIENCY BILL

THREE AND HALF MILLIONS DAPPED OFF PRESIDENTIAL RECOMMENDATIONS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—(P)—A squabble with Vermont's governor, George Aiken over states rights, members of the house appropriations committee said today, was a spur to their "economy mindedness" in lopping $3,750,000 off President Roosevelt's recommendations for the first deficiency bill.

Of the total deduction from Mr. Roosevelt's request for $13,529,000 the committee took away $2,200,000 which would have gone to Vermont and other New England states for repair of last September's hurricane damage.

Further, the subcommittee inserted a requirement in the bill that the federal fund for such work be matched with state money. The full committee approved the smaller group's recommendation.

Governor Aiken has contended that the federal government was trying, under the flood control act, to condemn and seize state property.

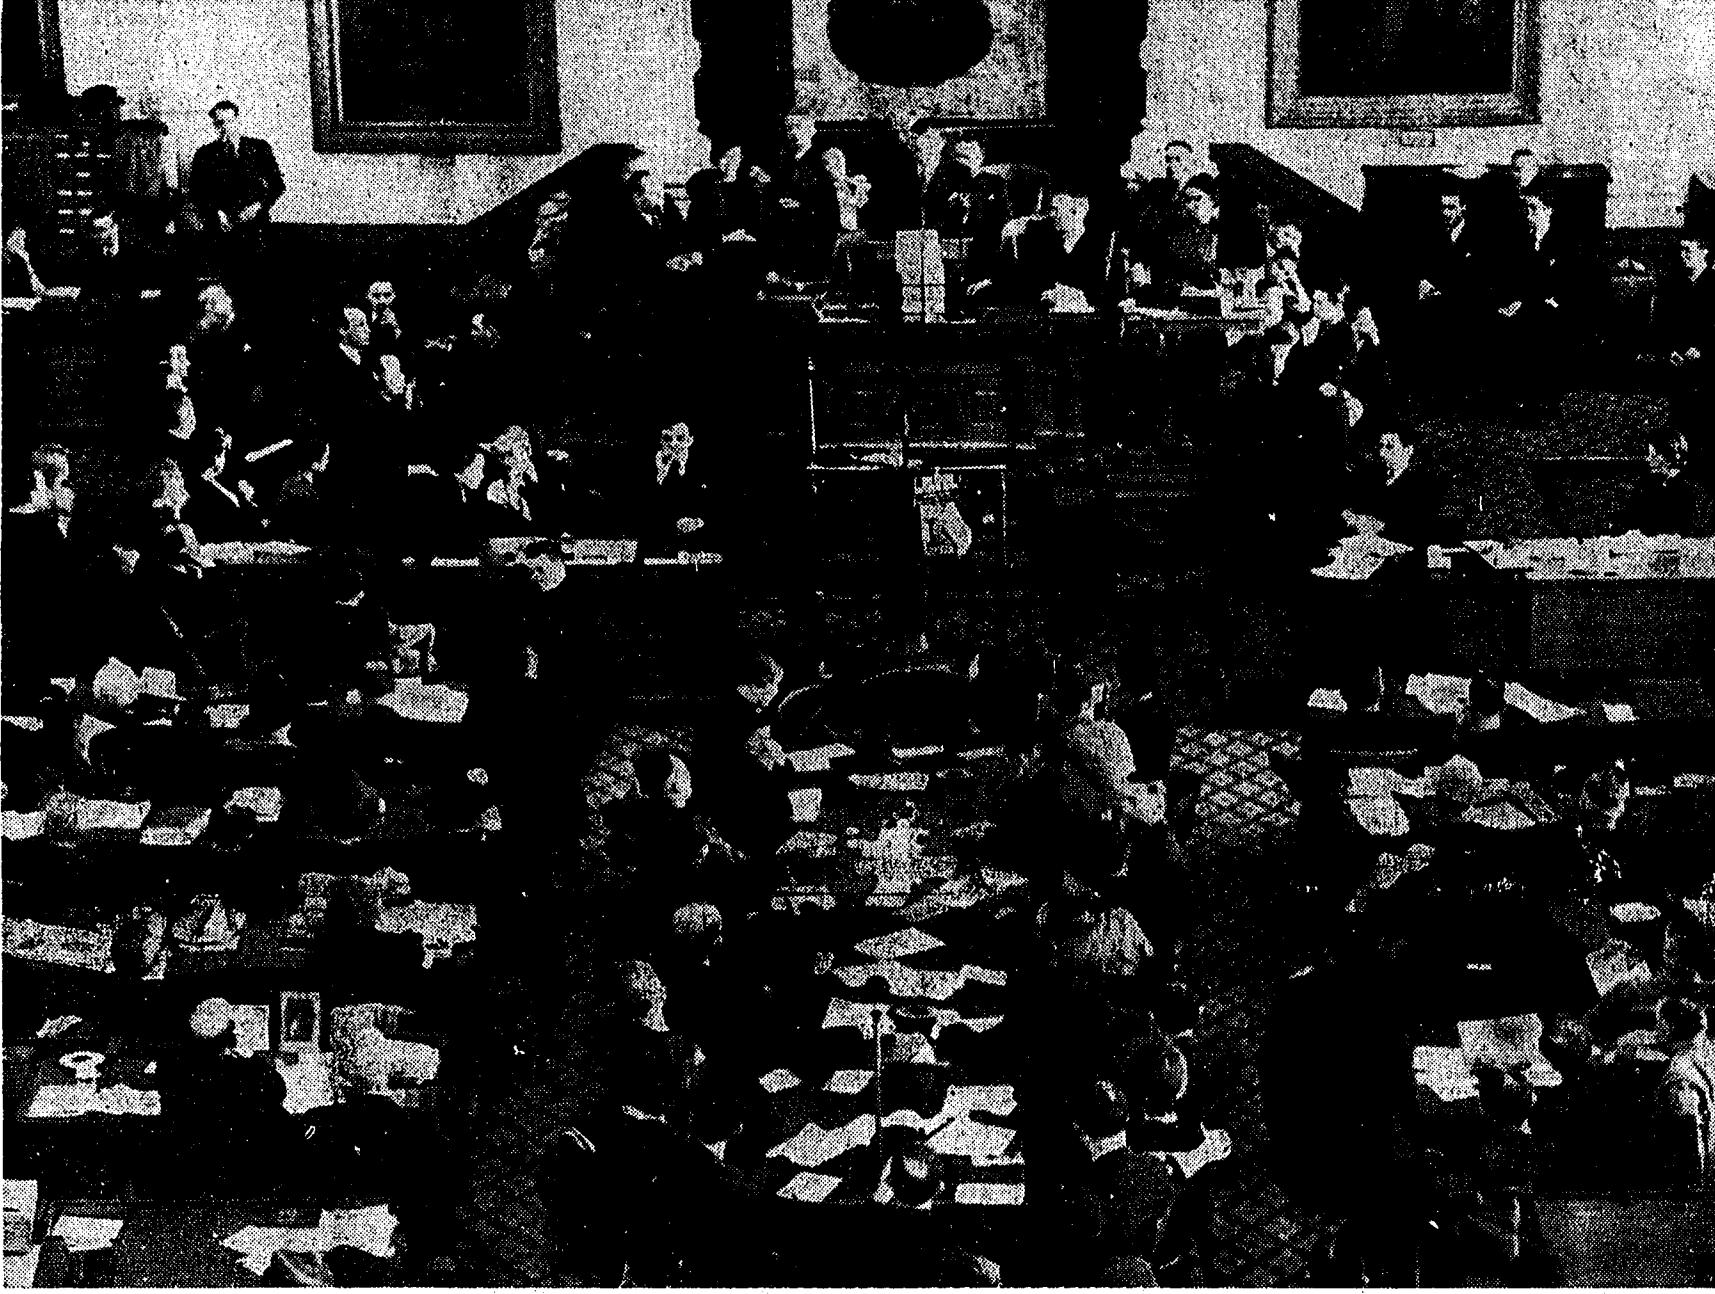

Committee members said they thought if Aiken was so insistent on protecting states' rights in connection with flood control, than Vermont and the other New England states ought to have the right to match federal money used to prevent fires and save timber in the woodlands.

In fact, some committee members said the states probably should

Legislature Receives O'Daniel's First Message

Flanked by Lt. Gov. Coke Stevenson (left) and Speaker Emmett Morse (right), Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel (center desk) Wednesday delivered his initial message to a joint session of the 46th Texas legislature. In it he proposed a transaction tax of 1.6 per cent to raise needed revenue. The photograph shows the forward section of the hall of the house of representatives, with the long press table in the center. Newspaper correspondents are shown listening intently to the long-awaited recommendations of the newly-inaugurated governor. (Associated Press photo).

Governor W. Lee O'Daniel

said today he accepted full responsibility for the astonmade to the legislature and asserted reaction had been very favorable.

Addressing a joint session yesterday, 24 hours after he was inaugurated, he recommended a

"transaction" tax of 1.6 per cent as the best means to solve the state's old age pension and other financial problems.

He would submit the tax proposi-

abolish the ad valorem tax for state purposes, in constitutional form to be voted on June 3.

The tax is virtually free of and the actual increase in state revenue would be cut $20,-

TRAGEDY OF STRONG MAN WHO WENT BACK ON BEST SELF*

Famous Incident of Peter, the Rock, Who Crumbled Before the Jibes of a Servant Girl—A Little Study In Human Nature At Its Worst—Crash Possible to Everybody.

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS

Now we come to the blackest chapter in the life of that ever-interesting character, Simon Peter. Whether up or down, at his best or at his worst, Peter commands attention. A great editor once remarked to me that there are certain personalities, like Theodore Roosevelt and William Jennings Bryan, who are news-makers. Whatever they do, say or think, wherever they go, they hold the public eye. Other men, even greater, do not thus draw general public interest; they are colorless. Among the Twelve Apostles, Peter alone had this quality. He was an individuality that could not be ignored.

He was the man of the flashing sword, the flashing word, even to this day the crowning of a cock is associated with Peter's shame. He was the roof-top vision at Joppa. He was the first definitely to perceive the Messiahship of Jesus. His was the voice that defied the entrenched religious leaders of his day with, "We must obey God, rather than men." He was the thrilling, bold preacher at Pentecost. He was the disciple whom a jolt could not hold. It was he who dared to walk the waters at the appearance of his Lord. He was the resurrection morning. And it was a humbled Peter who was summoned to "feed My sheep."

A Crash for Self-Confidence

Cock-sure and self-assertive, Peter sounded a jarring note at the solemn session about the Last Supper, by declaring boastfully that, though all others might fail the Master, he would be faithful, even to the death. That remark was strangely inconsiderate of the feelings of the other disciples, and characteristic of Peter's rash and impulsive ways.

Our world is full of boastful Peters, strutting in pride. They are sure of themselves to an offensive degree. There were many of them in 1929, confident that their wealth and position were permanent strength and power. We have heard some of those same men whimpering in poverty and defeatism, during the years that have followed. A Scripture word that merits constant coming is, "Let him that standeth take heed lest he fall." Even the ripest saint is ever in danger. Passing Newgate, with a murderer's corpse swinging on the gibbet, a great Christian exclaimed, "There, but for the grace of God, hangs John Newgate."

Some of us who have been alert to Christian events over the past generation could write a fearsome list of one-time Christian leaders who have collapsed morally, and have disappeared from public view. A noble and saintly minister once said to me, in connection with the shame of a fallen leader, "I find in myself the very same temptations to which he succumbed. Only the grace of God has kept me from these shameful sins." Every reader of these words knows that the crash of self-confident Peter is possible to himself.

The Leader Who Knew

We tarry for a moment by the sacred scene in the Upper Room. Jesus had poured out His loving, breaking heart to His friends. He loved them to the uttermost, although fully understanding their infidelity. One mark of a true leader is patience with his followers. Jesus knew Judas and Peter better than they knew themselves.

So he addressed the latter not by his rock name of Peter, but as Simon—Simon, the old, weak, wavering, up-and-down fisherman who had yet to come into the full inheritance of his new name. Seeing beyond the craven denial, Jesus bade Simon use his fall and its lesson for the strengthening of the brethren. That is the one useful remnant of a slump into sin; it enables a Christian patient and sympathetic to help others who are in like manner tempted.

Of course, Simon protested that he had no need of such warning; he was ready to follow his Master even to prison and to death. Then fell the dreadful words, "The cock shall not crow this day, until thou shalt thrice deny Me." The awesome foreknowledge of what awaited Him and His friends was the heaviest end of the Saviour's cross.

By the Wrong Fire

Let it be said to the credit of stumbling Peter that, after his impulsive act of courage in the

REGISTERED COTTON SEED SOLD MEXICO BY LOCAL BREEDER

Shipments are now being made from Corsicana, on an order for thirty-six car loads of registered cotton seed which was placed recently with John J. Bryant, well-known Navarro county breeder, by the Department of Agriculture of the Republic of Mexico.

The selection of Navarro county seed was made after representatives of the Mexican government and others interested in the project had visited and studied the varieties offered by leading cotton breeding farms of Texas and also several of the large areas planted to registered seed.

The seed will be used as a part of a co-ordinated program to increase yields and quality of staple in a large project along the Texas border extending from Matamoros to near Corpus Christi. The move is sponsored by the government along with cotton merchants, ginner and growers. The area was formerly planted in any variety desired by the individual farmers. The practice was banned by governmental edict and a decree issued requiring importation of registered seed for the coming season.

Bryant seed are now to be found almost over the entire state of Texas and in Mexico as well. Last year a number of West Texas counties adopted the Navarro county breeder's product as their official variety and the order of the Mexican government will extend the plantings from the Panhandle to Mexico.

EXACT WORDS FAMED AMES STEPHEN HOGG QUOTED IN ADDRESS

NEW GOVERNOR SAYS DETERMINED TO DO HIS DUTY AS CHIEF EXECUTIVE

AUSTIN, Jan. 17.—(P)—In the exact words of the late illustrious James Stephen Hogg, W. Lee O'Daniel dedicated himself today to the services of "the great masses" during the next two years.

The governor said in his inaugural address he was determined to do his duty and was "fully convinced the legislature will do its duty."

"There are no better judges of what is proper," he said, "or of the efficient performance of duty than the great masses who of right do, and should forever, control this country."

To the electorate, O'Daniel said, he acknowledged "unfeigned gratitude." He asserted he had reached the "summit" of his political ambition, and therefore dedicated his "honor, time and ability" to the protection and promotion of their "sacred rights and material interests."

O'Daniel, who was a flour merchant before he cast out for the governorship—his first effort at public office—said he came to the people "untarnished politically, and by the grace of God, I hope to remain in that category."

Pointing out the riches of Texas in soil, climate and natural resources, O'Daniel declared "those things are the gift of God. The touch of man is necessary to develop these great gifts."

To Correct Mistakes

The governor said after some of the "legislative mistakes" were corrected, and the government was placed on a sound, constructive basis, "the pang of hunger and poverty of our helpless citizens will be eased, and the minds of our business men eased." Texas would be ready to enter a "new era of industrial and agricultural development."

"I beg to tender to the senators and representatives the freedom of the department over which I am to preside, to assure them that on no occasion will the door be closed to their coming, for with constituency, whose pride centers in the glory, honor and advancement of a great state."

"Ladies and gentlemen, the words I have just uttered are the exact words spoke by Governor Hogg during his first inaugural address."

'O'DANIEL LUCK' HELD UP FOR HIS INAUGURATION DAY

MORE THAN FORTY THOUSAND WITNESS COLORFUL INAUGURATION

By HOWARD C. MARSHALL
MEMORIAL STADIUM,
AUSTIN, Jan. 17.—(P)—"O'Daniel luck" held for inauguration day.

Brilliant sunshine scattered clouds as more than 40,000 from all over the state trooped into the big University of Texas Stadium for the spectacular and colorful five-hour ceremonies accompanying the administration of the governor's oath to the "hillybilly" governor from Fort Worth.

Arrival of O'Daniel, his family, and state officials at 9:45 started a parade of 37 bands—2,000 musicians—around the stadium and in review before the official stand.

It was a good-natured, orderly throng and the pageantry moved with precision and informal discipline through the program's early stages.

At 11 o'clock the great stage on the field at the open end of the stadium horseshoe was cleared and the pageant, "The American Way of Life" with democracy as the theme, was presented by students of the University of Texas.

The oaths of office for O'Daniel and Lieutenant-Governor Coke Stevenson were to follow immediately after the pageant, about 12:30.

MEMORIAL STADIUM, Austin, Jan. 17.—(P)—Four hours ahead of time, 10,000 politically-conscious persons grabbed choice seats in Memorial Stadium today to hear W. Lee O'Daniel inaugurated Texas' new governor.

The scene was ablaze with color and a brilliant sun beamed down to mock the weather bureau's discouraging forecast of occasional showers. "The O'Daniel Irish luck," some said.

O'Daniel breakfasted in his hotel's coffee shop after his last commercial broadcast at 6:45 a. m., where his hillbilly band put on a jam session, mountain style, after their radio chores were done.

The city was alive with people and banners, one-man bands and stenographers, marching musicians and ten-gallon hatted officers from the cattle country.

The strains of "Beautiful Texas" echoed through hotel lobbies, the capitol and Congress avenue.

The carnival air had seized the city and spread quickly to the stadium.

Many in the crowd brought along picnic lunches to munch during the long program. The general wading through the vast granite capitol before coming to the stadium.

Huge Stage Constructed

At the south end of the stadium a huge stage in tiers had been constructed for the ceremonies leading up to the administration of the official oath of office to O'Daniel by Chief Justice C. M. Cureton of the supreme court shortly after noon.

Part of the famous Longhorn band of the University of Texas were seated directly in front of the stage, its duty to play for a patriotic pageant presented by university students preceding the swearing in.

The musical units got an enthusiastic response from the crowd as they struck up marches or swung "Yankee Doodle" and "Hinky Dinkey, Parley Wo."

Numerous bands were not the only thing making the stadium throng seem like a football crowd. Members of the Cowboys and Orange Jackets, University of Texas boys and girls pep organizations ushered families and friends of state officials to their reserved seats.

Gold West Wind

A cold wind blew from the west, fluttering pennants and flags on the rim of the stadium. Members of the Texas national guard were scattered about the stadium field to assist in directing and handling the crowd.

A light rain in the night had dampened all the seats and the wet ones were favorites of the crowd.

The Ross Volunteers, famous honor unit at Texas A. and M., resplendent in white uniforms and carrying flashing swords, got a big hand when they marched through the north entrance to the stadium and around the oval to the front of the stage.

Cheers and handclapping swept the stadium when the official party entered the oval.

The first car, driven by Mayor Tom Miller of Austin, O'Daniel stood, smiling and waving his hat. Seated in his car were his two handsome sons, Pat, 19, and Mike, 18.

In the second car of the procession were Mrs. O'Daniel and daughter, Molly, 16.

Other automobiles carried Gov. James W. Allred and state officials. At 10 o'clock there were about 23,000 persons in the stands and perhaps 1,000 on the field.

O'Daniel's Pose

A colorful quintet, the O'Daniel family, posed for photographers. Mr. and Mrs. O'Daniel wore Texas-made suits of gray. The boys were in bright blue sweaters. They wore no coats.

Two bands, the 141st and 142nd, serenaded the officials. The Texas A. and M. long-horn band, present, received an ovation as it marched in.

The North Texas Aggie band came next and like the others marched past the reviewing stand, then gave the first rendition of "Beautiful Texas." O'Daniel's own composition.

Frank Payne, described as the "Singing Senator," F. W. Moore and a friend of O'Daniel, sang the words of O'Daniel and Molly standing beside her father, joined in.

The former governors were on the officials' stand early—James E. Ferguson, Ross Sterling, W. P. Hobby, Pat Neff and Dan Moody.

Brilliant sunshine brought out all the colors of a thousand uniforms. Some 10,000 in stands and the vast assemblage stood and uncovered heads when the Texas A. and M. band played the official state song, "Texas, My Texas."

The university's Longhorn band signified the near approach of a patriotic pageant with a spirited air.

At 10:45 o'clock the band announced at 10:45 o'clock that they were present. A large white uniformed band and a corps of girls from

MANSION HOME FOR GOVERNORS OF TEXAS

Tuesday, Jan. 17, W. Lee O'Daniel, erstwhile flour salesman of Fort Worth, took up his residence at the Mansion. It was erected in 1855 by the state as the official residence of her governors, and was first occupied by Gov. E. M. Pease.

NEW ATTORNEY GENERAL CARRIES ON DUTIES

Gerald C. Manp, who succeeded William McCraw as attorney general of Texas, is shown at his desk carrying on his duties with the aid of a stenographer. Behind and hanging over his desk is a plaque presented by friends and upon which is carved the words of a promise he made during his campaign: "I sacrifice no principle to gain this office, and I'll sacrifice no principle to keep it."

HANGS 'FOR SALE' SIGN ON OLD HOME

W. Lee O'Daniel, incoming governor of Texas, hangs the "For Sale" sign on his Fort Worth residence as he moved out Monday to take up his residence for the next two years in the state-owned Mansion at Austin.

Arlington marched in, bugles blaring "Semper Fidelis." It was followed by a band from the same town.

The patriotic pageant started with an overture by the Longhorn band. Two hundred students marched on the stage and gave responses on the theme, "We are Americans," to a leader.

Male actors in the costume of 1776, representing Thomas Jefferson and other great characters of the period, recited the scene of the signing of the American Declaration of Independence.

Applause swept the stadium as "Jefferson" read the stirring introduction to the immortal declaration, "When in the course of human events..."

Scenes switched to events of the Texas struggle for freedom from Mexico, and pioneer Texans were shown demanding justice from the Spanish dictator, Sen. Anna.

A "ranchman" key-noted the finale of the pageant with,

"Let the entire world be as free as our own rolling prairies."

The chorus responded:

"For as the prairies of Texas, land of hills and prairies and grass lands, land of great silent spaces."

As the pageant actors left the stage, applause rolled around the great stadium.

O'Daniel concluded speaking at exactly 12:30. The inauguration program was keeping to schedule the minute.

"The oath of office will now be administered to Governor-Elect W. Lee O'Daniel by Chief Justice C. M. Cureton of the supreme court,"

Morse announced.

All through the stadium the

OLD AGE PENSIONS ADVOCATE BECAME GOVERNOR TEXAS

PAGEANTRY OF HIGH RANK IS FEATURE OF INAUGURAL SERVICES TUESDAY

By HOWARD C. MARSHALL
MEMORIAL STADIUM,
AUSTIN, Jan. 17.—(P)—W. Lee O'Daniel, mercurial patron of mountain music and old age pensions, became governor of Texas today—an office for which he could not vote.

With all the pageantry it could muster, Texas draped the mantle of its leadership over the 48-year old salesman extraordinary, whose political promises, hillbilly band and lusty humor had captured the state.

Fifty thousand persons—one of the largest crowds ever gathered together in the state—watched the splendid ceremonies in the vast University of Texas Memorial stadium.

Dignity and order prevailed over the multitude throughout the program. There was no flavor of the hillbilly which characterized the Fort Worth merchant's campaign, until he reached the end of his address.

Then he beckoned to his band—the Hillbilly Boys—and they struck up "Beautiful Texas."

So impressed had the spectators been with the solemnity of the show, they failed to join in immediately. After the first line or so, the same lustily, O'Daniel's inaugural speech gave no hint of how he intended to raise the money for old age pensions advocated when he rolled over the state last summer deriding "professional politicians" and admitting he couldn't vote for himself because he had no pol!

He quoted from the inaugural speech of the "illustrious James Stephen Hogg, considered Texas greatest governor, and said he hoped to emulate him.

After the ceremonies, the visitors took over Austin—they swarmed through the downtown streets and roamed in great numbers through the huge granite capitol building, leaning over railings, inspecting almost every inch of the historic building.

Stevenson Pledged Aid.

Leut.-Gov. Coke Stevenson, in his first speech in that office, pledged co-operation with O'Daniel in every effort for the public welfare.

Rising Governor Allred in his farewell address, uttered words of encouragement for his successor. Today was his great day.

Tomorrow he faces his great test—when he meets the house at 2 p. m. to give the first outline of his own legislative program.

In the words of the immortal "commoner" governor of Texas, James Stephen Hogg, O'Daniel, delivering in his inaugural address, dedicated himself to the service of "the great masses."

Shortly before O'Daniel was sworn in, Coke Stevenson of Junction took the oath at lieutenant governor in succession to Walter Woodul of Houston.

The old government was instituted for the safety and happiness of the people, and the object of all laws should be to accomplish those ends.

The splendid body of senators and representatives now in session, with those objects alone in view, will receive my hearty and earnest assistance in accomplishing the work that lies before them. While the people expect much of this administration, they can be trusted to wait for results, in which they will not be disappointed.

Honest, faithful efforts on the part of their servants can not fail of their probation. There are no better judges of what is proper, or of the efficient performance of duty than the great masses, who do right and should, above all, control this government.

In taking the oath, I have by the grace of a generous people, assumed grave responsibilities, the obligations of which bear heavily upon me. In return for the confidence bestowed, I hope, faithful service will be rendered to our own talent and ability; and to properly care for those of our citizens who need help and are unable to obtain assistance from their relatives and friends.

Other functions of government may become temporarily necessary from time to time during emergencies.

Texas is rich in soil, climate and natural resources. These things are the gift of God. The touch of man is necessary to develop these great gifts. After we have untangled some of our legislative mistakes of the past and placed our government on a sound, constructive economic basis, so that the pangs of hunger and poverty of our helpless citizens are appeased, and the minds of our business men eased, we shall then be ready to enter a new era of industrial and agricultural development which should bring to every man, woman and child in Texas, happiness and prosperity.

All Within Easy Reach.

All this is within our easy reach, but we must all earn it by the sweat of our brow, because it is basic fact that happiness and prosperity cannot be established into existence. We need to tackle the problem and work harmoniously in a co-operative spirit to bring about its realization.

It is not a one-man job, but it is the job of the more than six million citizens of this great state of Texas. Each of us must do our part, and the laurels gained shall be sufficient to crown all who take part.

To study and determine these needs and requirements and transmit his recommendation to the legislature, the beginning of my official service, I publically acknowledge unfeigned gratitude. From penury in boyhood, all along life's rugged way, they have liberally shown me favors; and now, from the summit of my political ambition, I acknowledge their supremacy and dedicate my honor, my time, and my abilities to the protection and promotion of their sacred rights and material interests.

Ready to Consult.

In conclusion, I beg to tender to the senators and representatives the freedom of the department over which I am to preside, and to assure them that I will do my best to earn the confidence and loyalty of the people.

Trained units of state police and other organizations manned the first aid centers which were established as a protection against possible injuries among the thousands who jammed the stadium.

First Aid Plans.

AUSTIN, Jan. 17.—(P)—Ambulances and first aid tents flanked the University of Texas stadium scene of W. Lee O'Daniel's colorful inauguration as governor to-day.

BETTER THINGS TO BUY

If the present improvement in business doesn't turn out to be the real thing, carrying us to former heights of prosperity and beyond, it will certainly not be for want of new and better products to attract buyers.

It seems strange, when you think of it, that more emphasis has not been put on this remarkable phase of American business. Look at almost any kind of merchandise today, in the stores, in the newspaper advertising pages, in people's homes, and compare them mentally with the corresponding lines of goods we had before the big depression.

You will find literally thousands of new products, and you will find thousands of improvements made on old products. Clothing, shoes, furniture, kitchen utensils, floor coverings, curtains, hardware, stoves, furnaces, household appliances of countless kinds, paints and varnishes, table ware, automobiles and trucks, lawnmowers, wheelbarrows, cutlery, and so on.

This nation used to be proud of the title "melting pot," by which we described the creation of an American people from the many different racial groups who came here seeking freedom and opportunity. To permit anyone now to break up the American people again into racial or religious factions would be to wreck our democracy as surely and as tragically as a ruthless military conqueror would do it.

AIR BOATS TO ENGLAND

Pan American Airways are now prepared, with the experimental work done and big flying boats developed, to start regular passenger and air mail service to Europe as soon as the worst winter weather is over. They would like to begin in March or April, and they would prefer to make England their terminus.

There seems to be some doubt, though, about this point. For Britain is developing her own aviation system, planned to hook up with all her colonies and dominions and also skim quite a bit of cream off world traffic in general. And Britain fears American competition in this field. So it is rumored that our transatlantic air service may have to establish its terminal in France.

Paris is a natural terminus and an important aviation center for Europe. But Britain would be making a strategic mistake if she obliged our pioneer air lines to go there. It would divert much American traffic and business from England.

British insistence on air monopoly would also tend to cool the blood-brothers and hands-across-the-sea spirit which enlightened Britons lately have been trying very hard to build up.

THE "ISMS" OVER HERE

Edward Hunter, an American newspaper editor and foreign correspondent, who had observed the development of the "isms" abroad, found them pursuing a similar course in the United States. A young Communist in New York told him how proud he was of having helped to break up a Bund meeting there. About the same time an equally enthusiastic Nazi told how he had helped to disperse a Communist gathering in New Jersey.

Recently Mr. Hunter went over his clippings about extremist meetings broken up by extremists of the opposite camp. The envelope bulged. The oldest item was only two years old and a few lines long. Subsequent clippings grew longer as disrupted meetings involved ever greater violence.

If there's one thing that people like better than getting useless information, it's giving useless information abroad, he had found.

HATE.

I wonder at the early dawn
When spring is dancing on the lawn
And tulips deck the garden gate
How men can rise from bed to hate.

And when the sun is overhead,
When men at noon are breaking bread,
I wonder then how mortals can
Hold hatreds long for any man.

At evening when the sun slips down
And leaves to moon and stars the town
I wonder then how men can be Disturbed by cant and bigotry.

Since man's allotted years are few,
And oh, so swiftly hurried through,
It seems to me a blunder great
To waste one day of them in hate.

PRESERVING TOLERANCE.

The board of education in New York City has recently decided to aid the cause of democracy and tolerance by holding school assemblies and giving instruction in racial and religious tolerance and understanding. Congratulating New York upon that action, J. W. Studebaker, national commissioner of education, adds:

"It would be a serious error in judgment to assume that the people of the United States must defend themselves only against the military and economic pressure of totalitarian states. It is quite as important that we strengthen the defenses of our democratic ideas and practices against the inroads of the doctrines which are so thoroughly lacking in both scientific and spiritual justifications."

This nation used to be proud of the title "melting pot," by which we described the creation of an American people from the many different racial groups who came here seeking freedom and opportunity. To permit anyone now to break up the American people again into racial or religious factions would be to wreck our democracy as surely and as tragically as a ruthless military conqueror would do it.

UN-MAKING ALCOHOLISM.

Drinkers are made, not born, said a speaker at the meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. The foundations of alcoholism, he holds, are psychological and may be removed by correct treatment.

"The effective way," he explained, "is to let the drunkard live in a sympathetic community, where he can take as many drinks as he wishes, but continually see other people who benefit from not drinking so much.

"Finally the drinker reaches a stage where he is able to refuse a drink—the last drink. When he can refuse the last one he becomes proud of the achievement and experiments further."

It sounds almost too easy. If this method were generally effective, would there be any drunkards today? Experiments' non-drinking is easier for the temperate person than for the heavy drinker.

brought new recruits to both sides. Never did I see one extreme rise without the other giving it a life," he writes. "Each gained adherents among ordinary people who were indignant over the excesses of the other extreme."

The "isms" threatened to follow the same course in America, but Mr. Hunter believes two factors have recently risen to counteract them. One is a definite campaign to increase understanding and appreciation of democracy. The other is the instructive reaction against European pogroms, persecutions and purges.

Americans, we believe will never condone such extremism and will show in extremis that they choose tolerance and fairness instead.

CLUBS PRACTICALLY SAME AS MEMBERS OF DISTRICT 30-B*MT. CALM REPLACED MALAKOFF; GRANDVIEW'S APPLICATION HELD UP

By PAUL MOORE
Sun Sports Editor

Schools formerly constituting District 30-B met here Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the Y. M. C. A. and drew up plans for the 1939 season as to membership, contingent upon the approval of the state inter-scholastic league executive committee.

The ten teams constituting the district last year and others in the proposed district 21-B and 24-B were represented in most instances.

Malakoff in New District

Malakoff is understood to have organized another district in Henderson county and was not represented at the meeting. Mt. Calm was substituted for Malakoff.

Grandview High School presented a written application for membership in the new loop, but the application was not granted.

Under the unanimous vote of the ten schools represented at the meeting Monday afternoon, the two districts will be merged to include the following clubs:

Blooming Grove, Frost, Italy, Millford, Dawson, Hubbard, Kerens, Mildred, Trinidad and Mt. Calm.

The distance of the Grandview club was ascribed as the only dissenting factor in that application.

Proposed Alignments

District 21-B under the proposed realignment of clubs by the state committee would include Blooming Grove, Frost, Italy, Millford, Dawson, Hubbard, Kerens, Mildred, Trinidad and Mt. Calm.

District 24-B as proposed by the state committee would embrace Dawson, Hubbard, I. O. O. F. Home (Corsicana), Kerens, Millford and Trinidad.

No action was taken on the status of the I. O. O. F. Home, but unofficial advices from various members of the proposed new district indicated that the admission of the strong Odd Fellows would not be welcomed.

The advice also indicated the Odd Fellows would not be eligible unless the referendum ending Monday was favorable, and under those terms, only by unanimous vote of the membership.

Another Meeting Soon

Another meeting will be held within the near future after hearing the decision of the state committee on the proposed district alignment. The question of dividing the district into two sections, contracts, etc. will be determined.

The concensus of opinion of the coaches and school executives presented indicated that the district again will be divided into a western and eastern sections. If the state committee allows the plan as adopted here Monday, with each division playing a round robin schedule for the title in the division and then the two winners staging a contest for the district championship.

Kerens annexed first honors in the eastern sector in 1938 with Hubbard winning the western honors. Kerens defeated Hubbard in the titular mellee for district honors and the right to advance to the bi-district B competition.

Malakoff is reported to be in a new alignment including Cross Roads, Mt. Alba, Frankston, Eastgate and Brownsboro.

Mt. Calm New Team

Mt. Calm, admitted into the local district Monday, is in the alignment of District 23-B by the committee. Grandview formerly competed in the district dominated by Diamond Hill of Fort Worth and other strong clubs. The district this year, however, will be an A affair and Grandview does not want to be in that sector. There is a possibility that Grandview may seek a berth in district 23-B including Whitney, Reisel, and other clubs in that vicinity should the state committee not force Grandview into this district.

D. A. Mills, principal of the Kerens high school, and chairman of the executive committee of the old district 30-B, presided at the meeting held here Monday afternoon.

All representatives at Monday's meeting expressed themselves satisfied and well-pleased with the 1938 arrangement of the clubs in this section in District 30-B and wanted to keep the same arrangement for 1939 if possible.

Funeral Services Held Thursday for Mrs. J. S. Harlee

Funeral services for Mrs. Frances Susan Harlee, aged 79 years, at the family home, 617 West Park Avenue, Wednesday morning, were held from the residence of John C. Calhoun, 1500 West Second Avenue, Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Interment was made in Oakwood cemetery. The rites were conducted by Rev. E. T. Miller, pastor of the First Baptist church, in which she was a long-time member.

A native of Little Rock, S. C., Mrs. Harlee had resided in Texas for many years. Prior to moving to Corsicana in 1903, the family resided at Georgetown for many years. She was the widow of the late J. S. Harlee, deputy district clerk and district clerk of Navarro county for many years.

Mrs. Harlee joined the Baptist church in 1881 at Georgetown. Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. T. M. Hart, Mrs. John C. Calhoun and Miss Elizabeth Harlee; seven sons, Frank, Edward, Wallace, Charles, Leroy, Marion and Thomas Harlee, and a number of grandchildren.

Pallbearers were Dr. W. T. Shell, Dr. Ellis Giere, Marlon Martin, Henry Walker, Joe E. Butler, Henry Hart, Judge A. E. Foster, Wm. V. Mowlam and Harry Clove. Sutherland-McCammon Funeral Home directed the arrangements.

WAG SUGGESTS NEW NAME "FLOUR BOWL" TEXAS MEMORIAL STADIUM SINCE INAUGURATION O'DANIEL

By HOWARD C. MARSHALL
AUSTIN, Jan. 10.—(P)—A new name has been suggested for the Texas Memorial stadium where W. Lee O'Daniel will be inaugurated.

A wag was attending the opening of the new session of the legislature opined "Flour Bowl" would not be inappropriate.

The home of the Texas Longhorns then might well keep company, it was said, with the Rose Bowl at Pasadena, the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans and the Orange Bowl in Florida.

Former Governor James E. Ferguson, who probably has made his last campaign speech in favor of a member of his family for governor, was in the capital legislative opening day to renew acquaintances and try to get a line on what the legislature will do.

In the past, Ferguson has advocated a general sales tax to pension everyone over 65. He probably will keep coming to the capitol when the legislature is in session, as long as he is able to get around.

Apparently well and hearty, he is pursuing the same course of life he has followed since his wife, Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, completed her second term as governor and retired.

He goes daily to his office in an Austin building, looks after his diversified business interests and by meeting friends and reading newspapers keeps close tab on current events, especially state politics.

Lately there has been a report he might revive his political weekly, the Ferguson Forum, which has not published for several months.

Many former representatives, along with job-seekers, lobbyists and mere spectators, also saw proceedings when the legislature took off for a four-month flight.

Said W. R. Nabours, Austin business man:

"Twenty-six years ago I was a green young country member of the house, and I haven't missed the opening session since."

Among other former representatives on hand were Bullock Hyder of Denton, Bert Ford of McGregor, now state liquor administrator, Dewey Young, formerly of Wellington and now of Dallas, Harry Graves of Georgetown, now a judge of the court of criminal appeals, and Jim Young of Cuero.

Also attending were former Senators John W. Hornsby and T. H. McGregor of Austin.

Charley McCombs, corporulent former representative from Dallas, was appointed a temporary page to House Speaker Emmett Morse.

After Secretary of State Edward Clark had sworn Morse as speaker, he (Clark) called McCombs to the stand to "attend to the speaker's personal wants."

Capitol newspapermen, who were the hardest-working persons hereabouts the first day, received some recognition in Morse's brief acceptance speech.

"I want to express my appreciation," Morse said, to the newspapers and particularly to capital correspondents for the many nice things they have said about me."

The many Texans urging governmental economy hope the legislature stays in the mood the house was in when it authorized appointment of its employees for the session.

Rep. Homer Leonard of McAllen, who introduced the resolution said it provided for 160 employees, a material reduction from those of the past legislature. He said it was "in line" with the speaker's wishes, but added some other employees may have to be taken on in the future.

Singing Friday Night.

The public is cordially invited to attend the regular weekly singing which meets at the court house 7:30 Friday night.

Many local singers will take part and some visiting singers are expected to be there.

Large crowds have been attending these singings and all enjoy the splendid programs.

Sun Employees Get Preview Doughnut Applesauce Cakes

A sneak preview of the latest in doughnuts and applesauce cakes was given the employees of the Corsicana Daily Sun Thursday morning when Mrs. Gladys Kinsolving under the personal direction of the Old Maestro, Tom McElwee, presented the always hungry knights of the printed word with an adequate supply of the dunkers delight—official emblem of the International Association of Dutiful Doughnut Dunkers.

The occasion was to allow news hounds, printers and ad chasers to officially pass on the product to be passed on to the public which the Corsicana Camp Fire Girls will deliver to hundreds of satisfied customers Saturday, January 28.

The doughnut and applesauce cake sale is an annual national event for Campfire and last year over 1200 dozen were sold to the habitual duffers of this city. The Campfire executive, Mrs. Kinsolving, says early orders indicate the total of last year will be far surpassed.

Five Dunks were accorded Thursday's preview by the Sun employees who were unanimous in predicting a successful and profitable campaign for all concerned.

The Camp Fire Girls held a check up meeting Thursday morning and samples of the product they are selling were passed out for their approval.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—(P)—A nine-point defense program will be considered by congress if it follows the suggestions of General Malin Craig, army chief of staff.

The measures Craig recommended to the senate military committee yesterday would:

1. Increase the army plane limit to 6,000 fighting craft.

2. Increase the air corps personnel.

3. Increase the number of air reserve officers on active duty.

4. Train air corps personnel in civilian schools.

5. Train civilian instructors in army schools.

6. Provide more training planes for civilian schools.

7. Provide housing additions in the Canal Zone.

8. Broaden powers of the army procurement section.

9. Increase army "educational" orders with industry.

Funeral Services for J. M. Bradley Held Rice Thursday

Funeral services for John M. Bradley, aged 66 years, prominent resident of Rice for many years, who died in the Navarro Clinic here early Wednesday morning, were held Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The rites were held in the Haynie Memorial Methodist church at Rice with interment in the Rice cemetery. The services were conducted by Rev. R. E. Briggs, pastor of the church.

Mr. Bradley was a native of Mississippi, but had resided in the Rice community for the past 46 years, and was well-known throughout Navarro county.

Surviving are his wife, two sons, J. K. Bradley and Alton B. Bradley, and two brothers, John Bradley, Rice, and W. W. Bradley, Gladewater, two sisters, Mrs. W. A. Perryman, Dallas, and Mrs. E. L. Bryan, Oklahoma City, and other relatives.

Palbearers were Mr. Fitzgerald, Ben Bartlett, Rod Bartlett, J. C. Park, R. A. Eden and Clarence Mahaley.

Sutherland-McCammon Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements.

ent output to 12,000 planes in three years—a production figure which the administration has heard. Germany already has attained.

Only about $170,000,000 of the $300,000,000 Mr. Roosevelt asked for aircraft would be used for new planes, Arnold said. Nearly 1,800 of the 3,000 would be combat planes.

Other projected expenditures include: $62,000,000 for construction of existing air stations, and establishment of air bases in Alaska, Puerto Rico, New Hampshire, Hawaii; $30,000,000 to add 2,500 officers; $25,000,000 enlisted men to the air corps personnel; $10,000,000 for technical schools at Hantoul, Ill., and Denver, and $3,000,000 for additional research.

The increase in enlisted strength would include 1,200 flying cadets.

General Malin Craig, chief of staff, was another witness before the committee yesterday.

DANIEL OPPOSED BORROWING BOLSTER PENSION FINANCES

NEWLY INAUGURATED GOV- ERNOR DISCUSSES MATTER AT PRESS CONFERENCE

AUSTIN, Jan. 18.—(P)—Governor W. Lee O'Daniel today announced he was opposed to borrowing additional money to bolster shaky old age pension finances.

The old age assistance commission stated recently receipts to the pension fund were running about $85,000 a month behind the outlay for pension payments and unless aid was forthcoming promptly individual pensions would have to be reduced after February.

Legislators have proposed to issue $1,000,000 in treasury warrants, which in effect would be borrowing the money from banks and also to borrow $2,500,000 from another state fund, the county road bond indebtedness fund.

"I regret that the pension fund is in that condition," O'Daniel said at his first formal press conference. "Everyone knows I am in hearty sympathy with the old folks."

"There is the hard way of taxation, or the easy way of borrowing. But, from the business standpoint, I have seen business firms that went bankrupt when they started the borrowing way. I am opposed in general to borrowing."

"I have no criticism of past legislation. We are simply face to face with a condition that did not exist then."

About two years ago, in a pension funds emergency, the state borrowed $1,500,000 from Dallas banks and approximately $1,300,000 has not been repaid.

Received Letter.

Asked if the bank was pressing for the money, O'Daniel replied it was not "threatening to foreclose" but it had written him a "letter."

"I would like to see the matter fixed up permanently, not temporarily," he said.

The pension problem and taxation go hand in hand, O'Daniel added asserting he would make specific recommendations to the legislature concerning both old age assistance and taxes.

He also indicated he would be much interested in suggestions from the legislature on the dual subject.

At 11 a. m. he still was working on his first message to the legislature, which he planned to deliver personally about 2 p. m. Originally he had intended to send the message in for reading to a joint session by a clerk.

"I was going to transmit it," he said, "but I understand the boys over there passed a resolution inviting me over, and I certainly feel honored."

Has Not Offered Places.

Concerning a rumor he had tendered the chairmanship of the state highway commission to Carr P. Collins, close friend and advisor, O'Daniel said:

"No, I haven't done that."

In addition to the post of the highway commission, other positions which he must fill include those of labor commissioner, adjutant general and life insurance commissioner.

He said he had planned no meeting of his advisory council of business men but intended to call in members when he felt he needed "good advice."

The membership of the council was announced several weeks ago.

O'Daniel arrived at his office bright and early, in fact, about 8 o'clock, walking over from the mansion, which he said he had found "a mighty fine place."

Among the first persons to whom he talked were members of the old age pension commission, Claude D. Teer, chairman, Tom Deberry and Henry Meyer, who also make up the state board of control.

Emerging from the gubernatorial office, he said, "they had talked about pensions" and added pointedly that the commission's duty was to "spend the money the legislature gives us."

FOREIGN TRADE

Other orthodox experts shudder at the barter idea. They say it won't work, but in the same breath they admit that it is working. And most of them have no answer to that, except that we must wait and see what happens.

Azacarate Sails.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—(P)—General Juan Azacarate, Mexican minister to Germany, sailed for Europe today, refusing to comment on reports of an expansion in trade relationships between Mexico and Germany.

"Naturally," he added, was resuming his post "to improve relations between Mexico and Germany."

The diplomat explained he had returned to Mexico to fulfill the requirement for one year of military service out of every four and was anxious to get back to his post "as soon as possible."

In Berlin, a Nazi spokesman, questioned about possible oil and munitions negotiations between the two countries, said: "We will have to wait and see what happens when he arrives."

RELIEF

(Continued From Page One) allowed that of Labor and Municipal spokesmen who contended the total asked by Mr. Roosevelt is essential to prevent suffering.

Norris Statement

Senator Norris told reporters: "The people who are endeavoring to cut this appropriation are not familiar with the relief situation of the country. There was no group study of the situation before the President made his recommendation and it ought to be accepted."

Borah said he understood that the circumstances of many persons on relief were "fearfully bad."

"I do not know whether the money has gone into politics or to the officials who administer the fund," he said, "but I do know that the people who ought to have it are not getting enough to live decently."

"I can't reach the conclusion that the place to cut government expenditures is with those who will actually suffer if they are deprived of what they are already getting."

Meanwhile, Senator Wagner (D-N.Y.) urged the re-establishment of the National Employment stabilization board to direct a long-time public works program supplementing emergency relief.

Asked if the bank was pressing for the money, O'Daniel replied it was not "threatening to foreclose" but it had written him a "letter."

"I would like to see the matter fixed up permanently, not temporarily," he said.

He also indicated he would be much interested in suggestions from the legislature on the dual subject.

Asked if the bank was pressing for the money, O'Daniel replied it was not "threatening to foreclose" but it had written him a "letter."

"I would like to see the matter fixed up permanently, not temporarily," he said.

PLENTY WARPLANES
CAN BE CONSTRUCTED
IN UNITED STATES
WITHIN THREE YEARS THIS NATION CAN BUILD 12,000
PLANES YEARLY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18. (P)—Within three years, the house military committee heard today, this nation can be turning out warplanes at the rate of 12,000 a year.

Major-General H. H. Arnold, chief of the Army Air Corps, made this statement, committee members said, in a secret session at which he testified an army survey showed the aircraft industry's productive capacity—now about 2,600 planes yearly—could be doubled or quadrupled.

The committee had heard last week from Joseph P. Kennedy, ambassador to Britain, that Germany was capable of turning out 1,200 warplanes monthly.

After the executive session, members said General Malin Craig, army chief of staff, had agreed to answer a question by Rep. Short (R-Mo) as to whether any immediate invasion of this country was feared. General Arnold had declined to answer the question.

Arnold told the committee that four new air bases—two on the mainland and one each in Puerto Rico and Alaska—should be built to complete the defenses of the United States.

Should Be Expanded.

In addition, he said, the air base in Hawaii should be expanded.

Meanwhile, it was learned another set of locks at the Panama Canal, virtually providing a new channel for America's intercoastal "air line," may be financed by a bond issue.

Secretary Woodring, informed persons said, has proposed such an arrangement. Members of the house and senate military committees were reported to have listened intently to the proposal in a closed session yesterday.

Woodring's idea was said to be to use about $8,000,000 of the canal's $18,000,000 annual receipts to back a bond issue for the $200,000,000 program.

A third set of locks would provide a channel one to four miles distant from the vital waterway which connects the Atlantic and Pacific oceans. It would make use of natural lakes as does the present dual system.

Existence of an auxiliary channel would distribute the risk from a wartime air bomb attack, Woodring has argued.

Four New Air Bases.

General Arnold said in his testimony on the need of four new air bases, that with them, "the air corps can carry out its mission in defense of continental United States."

Emphasizing the importance of building up the nation's ability to manufacture airplanes on a large scale, Arnold testified that a survey already had been made which demonstrated that output can be doubled or quadrupled.

The present normal capacity of the private aircraft industry, he said, is about 2,500 planes a year.

To increase that, he advocated new legislation to permit plants now idle to compete for government business.

At the outset, Arnold stressed the need for training men to maintain the new planes. He said that by expansion of its facilities at San Antonio, Texas, the air corps could double its yearly output of 550 pilots but said the war department did not deem that particular course advisable.

No Mention of New Locks.

President Roosevelt recommended in his defense message the expenditure of $27,000,000 to maintain an adequate peace garrison in the Canal Zone but did not mention additional locks.

Discussion of the whole defense program, entailing an additional $35,000,000 over ordinary budget requirements, was resumed today at both ends of the capitol.

The house military committee called Major General H. H. Arnold, chief of the army air corps, for more details on the proposal to build the corps up to approximately 5,000 planes.

Arnold, 52, has been chief of the corps since Major General Oscar Westover was killed in a crash last September. He has indicated recently that speed as well as numbers is an objective of the

SENATE CONFIRMED
FELIX FRANKFURTER TO SUPREME COURT

ACTION CAME WITHOUT DE-BATE AND NO OPPO-SITION SHOWN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17. (P)—The Senate confirmed today the appointments of Felix Frankfurter to the supreme court and Frank Murphy as attorney general.

Approval of Murphy, former governor of Michigan, was voted after extended floor debate. Earlier the senate confirmed Frankfurter with no argument.

Opposition to Murphy's appointment was led by Senator Bridges (R-N.H.) while Senator Brown (D-Mich.) spoke in behalf of the former Michigan governor.

The vote on Murphy was 78 to 7.

The liberal Harvard law school professor was nominated for the high court by President Roosevelt to fill the vacancy created last year by the death of Benjamin N. Cardozo.

The action came without debate. Republicans said they had agreed in an advance caucus not to oppose the nomination. It was confirmed without a record vote.

No "No" votes were audible, on the voice vote.

The senate immediately turned to the nomination of Frank Murphy to be attorney general and Senator Bridges (R-N.H.) arose to protest confirmation.

"A long time ago a president of the United States said 'what the measure of a man is not what he says but what he does,'" the republican said, as he started a detailed recital of Murphy's legal career.

Strong minority party opposition developed, meanwhile, to confirmation of Harry L. Hopkins as secretary of commerce. Hopkins' nomination comes before the full senate commerce committee tomorrow for expected approval and probably will be taken up by the senate later in the week.

In his speech against Murphy, Bridges said the former governor was repudiated by the people of the state of Michigan by an overwhelming vote," referring to Murphy's defeat for re-election.

"The people of Michigan did not have confidence enough in him after a trial to re-elect him governor," Bridges went on.

Sen. Murphy had taken an oath to uphold state and national laws and "then proceeded to break that oath" when "the occupation of Flint (Mich.) automobile plants by a communist-led mob deprived citizens of their property and means of employment."

The Governor Murphy also failed in his duty, Bridges declared, by "refusing to permit state police to go to the aid of local authorities who were being hopelessly overwhelmed in their efforts to restore order."

They are shopping around and hunting for a war," Senator Bridges (F-L Minn.) declared. "There seems to be no cure for the depression except a great war drive."

Some doubt was cast on the probability of immediate action on one controversial part of the armament program. Mr. Roosevelt told his press conference yesterday that no appropriation has been asked for the fortification of Guam.

The establishment of a base there was recommended by a navy board, the president asked a congress for $44,000,000 for naval bases "in general agreement" with the board's report.

Frankfurter Takes Oath Jan. 30.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19. (P)—Felix Frankfurter, newly confirmed associate justice of the supreme court, said today he "will probably take the oath" of office January 30, when the high tribunal reconvenes after a two weeks' recess.

FLOUR SALESMAN HAS JOINED COLORFUL ARRAY OF FAMOUS
PERSONS AS GOVERNOR TEXAS

AUSTIN, Jan. 17. (P)—W. Lee O'Daniel, the first flour salesman but not the first merchant to be come governor of Texas, today joined a colorful company of Indian fighters, lawyers, and planters who served their state as chief executive.

One doctor, James W. Throckmorton, was governor, but the list of lawyers, decorated by such names as James Stephen Hogg and Richard Coke, is as long as your arm. The only house wife was Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, and the only former soldier in the Union army was Edmund J. Davis, who also was a lawyer. He dates back to the turbulent reconstruction days.

Francis R. Lubbock, who started his career as a merchant but did not like it, could best be classified professionally as a "public servant" because of his long career in various offices, but he fought Indians and was a distinguished soldier. Sam Houston so admired his business acumen he appointed Lubbock comptroller of the republic.
